NEW – VT Industries Now Offers Exterior Stile and Rail Doors

Opening New Possibilities

(Holstein, IA – July 10, 2013) – VT Industries is now a single-source Architectural Wood Door supplier, with the introduction of Exterior Stile and Rail Wood Doors. VT adds this new product line to their already robust offering of architectural wood interior doors, opening a world of possibilities for every project. Until now, the beauty and durability of Architectural Wood Doors from VT Industries have only been available for interior applications. With the introduction of this exterior collection, architects and contractors have a wider selection, with an array of elevations, heights, veneer species and thicknesses, as well as multiple sticking and panel choices.

All doors are manufactured to match perfectly, providing a cohesive look throughout a project. For VT Exterior Stile and Rail Wood Doors, customers can choose from standard and custom elevations featuring floating panel construction with internal dampening to eliminate rattles, split panel construction with built-in thermal barriers and more. Each solid wood door is factory finished on all six sides. A variety of sidelites and transoms are available and factory-installed insulated glass is standard in all orders.

VT Interior Stile & Rail Doors perfectly complement the distinction of the Exterior Stile and Rail Doors offered, from the beautifully classic and modern options of the Heritage Collection, to the customized craftsmanship of the Artistry Collection. Created to meet customers' needs, the selection of interior doors includes raised, flat, glass and louver panel designs, and factory-machine technology that allows for hardware, and pre-drilled pilot holes for hinges and faceplates.

“We understand that a door makes a first impression,” said Pam Rohlk, Customer Service Center Manager, VT Industries. “And want to help our customers make a great one. That’s why we bring a level of craftsmanship and expertise to wood doors that is unmatched in the industry.”

When a project calls for a one-of-a-kind door with a special look and performance, VT can custom manufacture a unique door to fit those specifications. Nearly every elevation can be produced with custom options, including oversized doors and specialty glass. Together with the full line of VT Interior Architectural Wood Doors, customers can experience the VT difference with every door for their projects, creating the ideal aesthetic from a single source supplier.

VT Industries Architectural Wood Doors are manufactured with outstanding performance, competitive lead times, leading technology and expert service. With techniques that incorporate sustainable practices and selective harvesting, VT Industries is Forest Stewardship Council® (FSC) Chain of Custody Certified.
